Company Profile - ENGLISH

Panguaneta: Plywood for Life

*Plywood for the future, a virtuous industrial cycle and environmental excellence.
Panguaneta world positioning.*

Being Panguaneta

Panguaneta turns a valuable raw material, poplar wood, into plywood with innovative performance features.

Playing a leading role on international markets, Panguaneta gives impetus to concrete environmental sustainability, involving all aspects of the industrial cycle in a virtuous and dynamic process.

Thorough knowledge of the sector, total traceability at all stages, consistent management of complexity, coupled with the use of advanced technologies: The industrial experience of Panguaneta is a solid asset we are proud to share with our customers.

In Sabbioneta. A tenacious approach, commitment and family, gave birth to Panguaneta plywood, the driving force behind feasible future development.

Strong Roots

Originally, Panguaneta was the name of a country settlement beside the river Po. The fields, often invaded by the river waters, still give life to poplar plantations.

Thanks to the tenacity of a group of young local people, led by Giuliano Azzi and Antonio Tenca, Panguaneta was reborn as a factory in Sabbioneta, in the spring of 1960.

Those young people, often relatives, were to create a formidable industrial experience. In over half a century of history many events were to happen, but the success of Panguaneta will always see that same “big” family playing a leading role, now in its third generation.

*Panguaneta is loyalty and innovation,
Panguaneta is family and factory,
Panguaneta is land and life.*

Real Values

The value of family, business ethics and loyalty to our origins.

We at Panguaneta strongly believe in consistency and respect of our values.

We prove this with commitment, planning the future in the name of sustainable development, respect and appreciation of work and with a strong propensity to product innovation.

These are the core values of the Brand, the light that shines over the entire company.

With loyal observance, Panguaneta also expresses deep gratitude to its roots, the territory, the founders, the men and women who have experienced all this, bringing the company to its current level of excellence.

Promoting the use in the world of poplar plywood, to exponentially increase the return of benefits to the environment.

Mission Environment

Panguaneta aims to offer a product of industrial value, able to efficiently and advantageously replace other raw materials whose use has greater critical impact on the environment.

The company lives its mission with passion, it often plays a leading role in international events and technical meetings, intervening on forest issues and firmly believing in good industrial practices.

Panguaneta also has the ambition to grow while improving its environmental performance and impact on the Planet. The company thus contributes in a particular way to the sustainable development of the local economy, to global ecological balance, conservation of the landscape and the economic sustainability of many industrial products.

From the supply chain to certifications, from the fields to the finished product, every move Panguaneta makes is a safe and aware step.

Responsibly

The continuity in the governance and ownership of the Company, the careful management of every aspect of the supply chain, the certifications acquired and complete self-sufficiency in energy testify to the strong and mature personality of the Panguaneta industrial model.

In any relationship context, with the community which hosts it, customers and suppliers, workers and all stakeholders, Panguaneta acts responsibly, with awareness and a sharing approach. This provides substantial strength, projecting the company with synergy into the future.

*The strong bond with the land, source of knowledge and sharing,
is the vital breath of the Panguaneta world.*

Essential Knowledge

The making of Panguaneta rests on a solid link with the cultivation of poplar: this is what gives life to the raw material, the fine heritage of the landscape.

Panguaneta constantly implements field tests. Know-how gained in planting density, quality assurance represented by the Italian clone I214, the agricultural practices observed and forest management all follow the principles of biodiversity, ensuring the respect and protection of the natural environment.

Knowledge sharing and cultivation techniques take place mainly with traditional suppliers, which represent the most fruitful and accredited partnership of the company.

The direct ownership of several major estates, devoted to cultivation and experimentation confirm the “green” soul of Panguaneta.

*The factory grows and is self-sufficient as regards energy.
The formidable reality of Panguaneta.*

Energy for the Future

As the poplar tree demonstrates its ecological value as it grows, improving various environmental parameters, so does Panguaneta, witnessing with the growth of the factory how it believes and also heavily invests in sustainable development.

The energy system that powers the production facilities consists of a steam generator of a futuristic concept, designed specifically to exploit the best available technology (BAT) for the Panguaneta processing cycle. The biomass produced directly from in-house processing is a source of energy right on our doorstep, as well as being completely renewable. Sophisticated management of combustion processes ensures maximum energy efficiency and quality of emissions into the atmosphere.

With a state-of-the-art thermal power plant reserving further, virtuous potential, plus the ability to recover other clean energy from residual steam, we have thus chosen to invest by looking ahead, to a world that is able to grow in a sustainable way.

We look towards the future with new eyes, certain of offering the best chances for our customers.

Quality & Expertise

Panguaneta today looks to the future, with the certainty that it has developed strategic partnerships and equipped itself with the most advanced technologies. Continuous technical updating, global presence, deep knowledge of production processes and strong market skills are the defining elements behind a comprehensive range of products and services.

Our plywood today reaches all latitudes and methods of design, construction and assembly, ensuring substantial competitive advantages, even for new applications. Our offer thus allows our customers to improve their business efficiency, timing, reliability and productivity.

*Automotive and industrial vehicles, Retailers,
Boats and Design, Fittings, Furniture and Toys, Building and Flooring...*

Showroom

Recognised and appreciated in a large number of applications, due to the commercial value and its technical implementations, the wide Panguaneta range today plays an important strategic role.

The products revolve around our main raw material: poplar. Poplar throughout plywood or poplar in combination with other wood species, along with the supply chain, allow infinite solutions with cutting edge sizes suitable both for traditional laminates, paper coatings and specific needs for the industry and retailers.

Our customers are the heart of our business strategy, this is why quality is our priority.

Creating Value

Customers are the heart of the Panguaneta business strategy. Our work grows with the sharing of expertise, to identify and implement increasingly ambitious objectives and to strengthen long-term relationships based on trust. The key to the success of Panguaneta is to contribute in order to significantly improve the performance of our customers.

Creating value has always been the goal of our research, a goal confirmed by our results. In the company's prospects, the areas on which investment has always been focused relate to product know-how, the quality of workmanship, service, personal interaction and process costs. Quality excellence is our priority.

The performance of our products, their reliability and durability are aspects thanks to which we were able to build our current partnerships with the most prestigious leaders of our segment.

A solid point of reference, a dynamic business capable of listening, capable of preserving.

Good Protectors

We entertain absolute confidence in the future and deep respect for the past, we care for our company and we preserve the best of our heritage and industrial traditions. For these reasons Panguaneta aims to be a solid point of reference for all.

Panguaneta thus stands close to its customers, consciously managing production and logistics, always offering the right supply.

Our customer service bears witness to the quality of this “caring concept”.

Panguaneta is part of a changing world, which nurtures positive expectations: this is why we are building on real partnerships, on tangible closeness, happy to set out on this journey together with our workers and all stakeholders.
